

Adnana Zbona

Associate and certified mediator

Adnana Zbona is a lawyer in the Litigation and Dispute Resolution group and focuses her practice on family, personal and estate law, including divorce, separation, child custody, partition of property and child and spousal support. She has represented parties in cases involving filiation and grandparents' rights of access to grandchildren.

Her practice covers every aspect of family, personal and estate law, including negotiating out-of-court settlements, reviewing and drafting proceedings and representing clients before the courts. Since she was sworn in, Ms. Zbona has appeared before the Superior Court and pleaded before the Court of Appeal of Quebec. Over the past years, she has participated in settlement conferences that have resulted in disputes being resolved.

Before joining the Litigation and Conflict Resolution group in 2021, Ms. Zbona shared her practice between family and immigration law. Practising immigration law led Ms. Zbona to represent parties before the Federal Court and the Immigration and Refugee Board.

She is also a mediator at the Court of Québec, Small Claims Division.
