Directors of Quebec non-profit organizations (NPOs)

September 1, 2006

A person who agrees to be a director of a non-profit organization should not consider his role to be a honorary one or think that his obligations are limited to giving or collecting money or providing advice to its officers. All directors have the same duties and are ultimately subject to the same liabilities, although there may be differences or increased burdens based on their skills, knowledge and various additonal responsabilities.
